Navy May Call Back Worden

• DWIGHT WORDEN, legislative chairman of Colonial Boosters, will resign "in a couple of weeks" if the Navy calls him, the Student Council was told Thursday.

Robert Lesser, program director of the Council and Boosters, made the statement and added that "as things stand" he will assume the chairmanship.

Worden told The Hatchet after the meeting that he made "no definite statement" on his possible resignation. He admitted he was considering it but only if he returned to active duty in the Navy in February.

Worden added that he has applied for active duty and, if he resigns, it will not be due to any pressure by members of Boosters or the Student Council.

Last March the Student Council ousted Bill Benson from his position as Booster chairman and installed Art Cerra temporary chairman. Worden took over the start of this semester.

The Booster legislative committee met yesterday to take action on suggestions for the basketball season. Among the proposed undertakings are the securing of a public address system for cheer leader's use during games, constructing a banner for home game display, and the reorganization of the cheer leaders.

Constitution Awaits Okay

• THE STUDENT UNION Board's constitution will be considered by the Student Life Committee tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the Conference Room of the SUOB.

The Constitution passed its first hurdle last Thursday evening when the Student Council approved it unanimously.

The Hatchet is expected to explain its attitude to Student Life on the Council's temporary election of Hatchet News Editor Walter Wingo at its January 4 meeting.

Registration Dates Set

• REGISTRATION FOR the winter term will be Thursday and Friday, February 1 and 2.

Students, except for those in Law School, will register in Building C, 2029 G St., and for the Law School in Stockton Hall, 720 20th St., NW.

Classes will resume Monday, February 5.

Schedule books and registration forms are now available in the Registrar's office.

Trustees Announce Four New Members

MRS. CARR JACKSON McKEE WEBB

• FOUR NEW members have been elected to the University Board of Trustees. They are: Mrs. Wilbur John Carr, Associate Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court Robert H. Jackson, John K. McKee and Under-Secretary of State James E. Webb.

Tyson Tells SC of NSA

• STUDENTS HERE can take advantage of many opportunities offered by the National Student Association even if the University does not become a member. Harriet Tyson told the Student Council Thursday.

Miss Tyson, a University student and next NSA executive secretary, appeared to enlighten Council members on their plan to inform students about all aspects of the NSA before a referendum is held to decide if students wish to affiliate with the organization.

Any student, whether his school is NSA-affiliated or not, may apply to join the international tours sponsored by NSA, Miss Tyson explained. Organizations here are free to take advantage of NSA's information clearing-house which sends out releases on student topics.

Asked why 2,000 Maryland University students had signed a petition against NSA, Miss Tyson attributed the action to Maryland's limited student budget and its shaky political and racial situation.

NSA President Al Lowenstein visited the University earlier this school year to discuss the possibilities of adopting NSA. He said the purpose of the organization is to furnish world voice for student opinion and to give students the opportunity to be represented at national educational conferences.

Mrs. Carr is the widow of the late Wilbur John Carr, University alumnus who was known as father of the American Foreign Service. She has long been a Washington civic leader and is a member of the Women's Board of the GW Hospital as well as Garfield Hospital.

For seven years, she has served as vice-president of French Relief and has been decorated by the French Government. As a member of the University's Board of Trustees, she will assume an office held by her husband from 1940 to his death in 1942.

Justice Jackson was awarded the Medal for Merit by President Truman in 1946 and is known for his work with the War Crime Trials.

Governor McKee served as president and director of the Continental Bank and Trust Company of New York City from 1946 to 1948. He was also a member of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System from 1936 to 1946.

Under-Secretary Webb attended the GW Law School from 1933 to 1936. Before being appointed to his present position, he was executive assistant to the Under-Secretary of the Treasury and director of the Bureau of the Budget.

Teachers Exams

• REGISTRATION for the National Teacher Examinations to be given at the University, February 17, must be completed by this Friday.

Application forms are available in the office of the dean, D-101.

The University in the World Crisis

Draft, Enrollment Problems Face University

By LOU STOCKSTILL

• EVERYONE ON CAMPUS today is asking, "What will happen to ME as a result of the emergency?"

The draft-eligible men are wondering how soon they will receive notice of induction. Should they enlist before they are called? Would it be better to enter a Reserve group? What are their chances of being deferred?

The veteran has similar problems. If he belongs to a reserve unit already, or is a member of the inactive reserve, how soon will he or his unit be called up? How soon will draft legislation be revised to include veterans in his category?

Women Also Concerned

The women, although not faced with the prospect of being dragged away to fight the war, are as concerned as the men. Many of those who are engaged or pinned keep a close watch over draft and reserve orders.

Little, if any, thought has been given, however, to the effect of the emergency on GW.

What will happen to the George Washington University as a result of the war?

If we are to believe Dr. Guy E.

Snively, executive director of the Association of American Colleges, GW, along with other universities, will lose 80 per cent of its male enrollment in June, if Congress adopts the plan to draft all 18-year-olds. This would mean a drop from the present 7,831 to 1,567 men.

Many Deferred

Already the emergency has brought about wide-scale withdrawals at other universities. "There have not been very many" at GW, however, according to Registrar Fred E. Nessell. "Most of our students who have been called for the draft," he said, "have been postponed." Nessell said that Doctor Snively's prediction "might be right," but that it "would be unprecedented."

Brig. Gen. Don Carlos Faith, Director of Veterans Education here, said the emergency "is not having a particularly strong effect on veteran enrollment." Largely, because most of the veterans are not eligible for the draft, he added.

There has, however, been a noted increase in the number of students who are "considering" withdrawal from the University. Wherever a group comes together on campus, there are invariably those who remark that they "have gone" or are "going" to one of the local recruiting offices to find out what their chances are of getting into the service of their choice.

Director of Admissions Harold G. Sutton said he had "no doubt" that enrollment "will be smaller next semester." He thought it was a little too early, however, to predict any resulting policy changes.

There is a possibility, too, that the uncertain world conditions will be reflected in grades handed out next month. The University of Oklahoma has reported that poor morale and low grades have already resulted on that campus. At the mid-semester, 46 per cent of the students made grades of "D" or "F." The Counselor of Women at the university declared that even the girls are jittery.

Grades in Danger

Nessell said that it is not possible to tell how GW has been affected by this problem. He said "we will know more about it when the semester grades are in."

Another aspect of the national emergency which is causing considerable debate in college circles is the question of whether college men should or should not be deferred. Although the selective service advisory committee has recommended deferment of superior students, the AAC is urging enactment of legislation which would disregard this factor.

College Graduates Needed

Other educational groups have made proposals at variance with this stand. The New York State Association of Colleges and Universities issued a statement that, while basic military training is needed, students should not be called until they finished high school or college. The president of Notre Dame emphasized that "The experiences of World War II have proved the need, not only in time of war, but in the vital post-war period, of men trained in colleges and universities."

On campus, General Faith said "I think it is necessary that selective service make some provision to conserve and keep up the stock of professional abilities." He does not believe, he said, that there should be any blanket deferment of college students, but that "those who are doing well" should be permitted to continue in order that "the Government will get the best use of them."

Next Friday, representatives of the American Council for Education will meet to discuss the expected drop in enrollment and other emergency problems. One of the topics to be discussed will be the possible reestablishment of the old wartime acceleration program which permitted students to graduate in three years instead of the usual four. The University, with its summer courses, is currently making such a program available to those enrolled here.

Male Enrollment Drops

Doctor Snively, in reporting the expected drop, said that male enrollment has fallen off about eight per cent nationally since 1949 and will drop another 10 to 15 per cent by next month.

Any major drop here will probably be noticed most in the Junior College which has the largest male enrollment—2,479—of any of the University divisions. Too, the men in the Junior College are most subject to the draft since they are farthest away from graduation.

Dr. Jarman Club to Present Skit

New Head Of Session

• DR. BURNICE H. JARMAN has been named director of the Summer Sessions, President Cloyd H. Marvin announced today.

Dr. Jarman, who has been a member of the University faculty since 1939, has been special assistant to Dr. Marvin since 1949. His other administrative posts at the University have included director of religious activities from 1944-1947; and registrar and secretary of faculties, 1945-1949.

He was made a professor of education in 1947 and will continue to teach courses in the history and philosophy of education.

Since September 1950, Dr. Jarman has served with the U. S. Office of Education as a member of the United States Civil Service Committee of Expert Examiners.

Dr. Jarman has the master of arts and the doctor of education degrees from GW.

He is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honorary; Phi Delta Kappa, education professional organization, and Pi Gamma Mu, social science.

• "BUBBLE" an original short story by Paul Robbins, will be presented tomorrow night at 9 p.m. over WCFM (99.5 on the FM dial) by the University Radio Workshop. Director Clarence Tipton plays the lead role with other principal roles played by Dave Bell, Elizabeth Harper and Ed McLaughlin. Those in the supporting roles are Steven Rosenbloom, Herb Horn, Ralph Bradford, Phyllis Engleman, Quinn Finta, Frankie Haynes and Joan Baruchin.

Council Passes Subscription Plan

• THE ENGINEERS' Council took action last Tuesday night to give final approval to a plan bringing the Mecheleciv magazine to all engineers.

This plan, proposed by the Administration, provides for a two-dollar subscription fee to be paid by every engineer at registration.

As long ago as last November, Vice-President U. S. Grant, III, in a conference with the Mecheleciv Editorial Board, indicated that he would be interested in such a plan if it were practicable. On behalf of the engineering students, the council gave its approval. At present, more than half of the registered students of the School of Engineering subscribe to the magazine, which publishes six issues per year.

Sound effects are by Sue Vernon and Diane Cremona.

Officers for the next semester were elected last Tuesday night at a special meeting of the Radio Workshop. They are Ed McLaughlin, president; Carl Ring, vice-president; Sue Vernon, secretary-treasurer. Also elected were the heads of the four major divisions of the Workshop: Clarence Tipton, program director; Jeannie Carvelas, business manager; Bob Jones, engineer, and Frankie Haynes, publicity director.

Fellowships Open In Teacher Study

• NUMEROUS elementary Teaching Fellowships, with a monthly stipend of $60, are available for eligible University students.

Dean James Fox of the School of Education says that the nation is faced with the greatest shortage of elementary school teachers in its existence. Because of this situation, the School of Education last fall established a new program for the preparation of elementary school teachers, constructed with the help of national leaders in the field of elementary education.

Through the cooperation of the Arlington and Montgomery County School Authorities, the School of Education has been able to establish a number of teaching fellowships. These Fellowships carry a stipend of $60 a month.

Students Visit School; GW Offers PR Major

• AT COLLEGE DAY, Dr. Elbridge Colby, head of the journalism department, announced the establishment of a major in Public Relations in that department, to join the already existing major in the news-editorial field.

The new major is sponsored by the American Public Relations Association, which has offered to turn over to the University library its collection of prize-winning materials in the public relations field for use in public relations courses.

"Although administered by the journalism department," Dr. Colby said, "this new major is a cooperative effort to which the business administration, psychology and speech departments also contribute equally."

He added that "it emphasizes governmental public relations as well as business relations, and is a reinforcement from allied fields of the new courses in public relations established during the last winter and fall terms."

• JUNIOR AND SENIOR students from the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia high schools were guests of the University Student Council at College Day last Wednesday.

Dean Myron L. Koenig of the Junior College welcomed the students to the campus and reviewed the academic program of a typical university during an assembly in Lisner Auditorium.

President Cloyd H. Marvin and other University officials entertained high school principals and college advisers at a luncheon at the Carlton Hotel before College Day. Superintendent Herbert M. Corning also attended.

University faculty members conducted special academic sessions following the assembly to discuss informally the academic training, practical applications, and career possibilities in a number of different fields. Each student attended the session covering his particular field of academic interest.

Phi Pi Epsilon Pledges Twelve

• TWELVE NEW members were pledged by Phi Pi Epsilon, national foreign affairs honorary for women, last month. Those pledged are Isabel Bauldin, Betty Ann Beall, Anita Dakobich, Lillian Johnstone, Joan King, Jennie Latino, Beverly Myers, Estells Radin, Kay Rowse, Audrey Rue, Frances Supper and Yvonne Worden.

Miss Worden was elected president of the pledge class at a meeting following the pledging ceremony.

1300 Students Fill Lisner To Hear Davis, Kefauver, Meyer in Panel

• THERE IS hope for humanity, but where the hope lies was a disputed matter between Sen. Estes Kefauver, Cord Meyer, Jr., and Elmer Davis, Thursday night.

Thirteen hundred students nearly filled Lisner Auditorium to hear the three prominent men discuss "What Hope for Humanity?" The Colonial Program was sponsored by the World Government Club and the Student Council.

Briefly, these were the speaker's views:

Estes Kefauver, Junior Senator from Tennessee—"It is necessary to find some means of standing together with all friendly nations. We must create such an unbalance of power in our favor that neutral countries would join us and no Communist nation would dare attack us."

Cord Meyer, Jr., president of the United World Federalists—"Both sides can go only so far with mutual fears. Our bargaining position is not improving. It is time now to negotiate. Such a delay would give time for a broader and more effective solution."

Elmer Davis, news analyst and commentator—"Men differ from animals essentially in that they can think. Sometimes they don't think adequately. The only hope for humanity is to think more and think better."

"Now there is a threat to all freedom of thought. If we preserve that freedom, we preserve everything. Too many people regard civilization as improved real estate."

Walsh Talks to Class

• THE HEARTLAND concept is the core of current Soviet expansion, Father Edmund J. Walsh, vice-president of Georgetown University, told the Political Geography class here last Thursday.

In discussing the "Geopolitical Objectives of the USSR," Father Walsh said that Russian expansion to the periphery of the World Island—the land mass including Europe, Asia, and Africa—is aimed at making the Western Hemisphere an island surrounded by Communist territory.

Aggression in Korea was just another part of the plan, Father Walsh said. Russian moves in Europe and Southeast Asia can be expected to continue, he predicted, to further protect the heartland.

The heartland in geopolitical thought includes Poland, the Ukraine, the Balkans and neighboring territory. Original geopoliticians Sir Halford Mackinder and Nicholas Spykman issued the heartland thesis in the early twentieth century.

Father Walsh explained briefly to the class the concept of dialectical materialism and how it was essential to Russian expansion.

Student Council Drops Draft-Letter Query

• THE STUDENT Council has dropped its investigation of the letters sent by the Registrar's Office to draft boards.

At Thursday's Council meeting, Rick Pentecost, who had undertaken the job the week before, suggested that the matter be dropped because the University apparently was being deliberately ambiguous in its letters regarding the standing of its students.

Travel Office Established

• DO YOU GET lonely when you drive up to New York by yourself? Have you been wondering how you can afford train fare South?

From now on, take your travel problems to Miss Edith Harper, student activities assistant, who is running a GW travel bureau for the Student Council. Miss Harper is in the Student Activities Office from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

Whether a driver or a hopeful rider, tell Miss Harper where you are going and when you plan to leave.

Not only will arrangements for rides be made through her office but the information is to be posted on the bulletin board on the first floor of the SUOB.

In general, University letters to local draft boards have been stating that a student is "in good standing" but not his upper- or lower-half position in his class. This data is the basis for possible deferment of full-time college students.

Council attitude was mixed regarding the letters. Bob Lesser and Warren Hull said their draft boards had disregarded as "insufficient" the University's statement that they were in good standing.

Tom Mutchler noted that the Registrar's Office will state in letters to students' draft boards whatever data the student requested if it is correct. Bill Scarrow, in referring to the Registrar's Office said, "let them continue their policy," but allow upper-half students to request additional data.

College Day

THE UNIVERSITY'S traditional College Day has found acceptance by other schools and is now being adopted by American University. Designed to introduce high school seniors and juniors to university life, the program began early in 1940 as part of the annual University May Day. This policy was not too successful as there were only about 150 visitors at each of the programs.

For the past three years the University has held a special program for high school students featuring special sessions in fields of study offered by GW and talks on what to expect from college. Attendance immediately jumped to a record high of 658 the first year. This year the meeting, scheduled in the first semester to include seniors graduating in February, continued to be most successful and praiseworthy thanks to the excellent co-operation between the GW students and faculty in putting on the program.

Prize Debaters

THE UNIVERSITY debate team this year stands out as one of the best in this part of the country as is proved by their record to date. Among other victories chalked up to an excellent all-round squad is their overwhelming success at New York University recently, where they won all eight debates in which they participated.

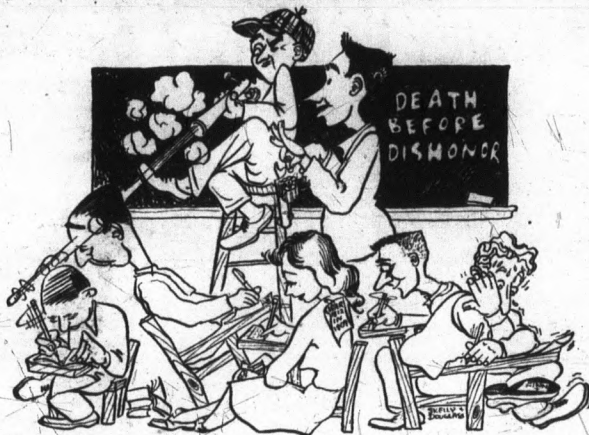

Never before in the team's history have there been so many able Freshmen, lacking merely the necessary practice to mould them into talented, veteran debaters. Each of these Freshmen is a product of one of the District high schools.

The entire squad is composed of 42 students, 13 of whom have taken part in actual debates so far this year and 27 of whom have participated in practice debates. Lack of opponents accounts for the fact that so few members have actually debated with decisions. All of these practice debates, however, have been critically appraised by faculty members. Schools on the agenda have included Rutgers, Georgetown, Vermont, Temple, and most recently NYU. Out of the five schools debated, GW won 25 and lost only 7, which as an average speaks for itself.

Perhaps your next question will be the same one which occurred to us. Why have there been no large debates here which would enable the students to see our prize-winning team in action? The answer is two-fold. One you have heard many times in relation to every other activity on campus—no money! Secondly, the faculty members instructing the team feel it is better to have no debate publicized than to give a poor one; poor in the sense that the audience would find little entertainment in poor competition. Mr. Henigan has claimed that this year's team is the "finest squad I've ever had."

Let us hope that in view of their outstanding performance this semester, the University will be able to see its way clear to hold a large debate here sometime in the spring. The squad has arranged to play host to two or three teams next semester which will give the students a chance to hear them, but it seems to us that their significance and the name they have made for themselves deserves the applause of wholehearted support in the form of a bigger splash.

Shall We Reload?

Have You Met

Jack Skelly

(As he tells it!)

By FRANKIE HAYNES

• STOP, LOOK, And . . . it's Jack Skelly. Always ready to voice an opinion, Skelly is not unknown to most GW-ites who are familiar with the smile and pipe of the maestro. He is a combination cut-up and dignified, serious-minded veep of the Student Council.

He was born in the Dominican Republic where his father was with the United Fruit Sugar Company, but left via his mother's arms at the age of two months to go to her home in Massachusetts. Jack, ever the wanderer, decided to return to the sugar cane when he was one year old. There he remained until 1945 "raising cane, making rum, drinking rum and raising Cain."

Caught Last Boat

As the last banana boat left Santo Domingo in 1945, Jack tramped aboard. It was a Swedish ship and in danger of being torpedoed; however, it reached the United States safely and he enrolled in high school. Mount St. Joseph, in Baltimore, was his home for four years. It was there that his great literary genius first manifested itself.

Jack wrote a short story for English class entitled "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas." His teacher suggested he hand it in to the Ink Pot, a publication similar to the Colonial Review. With it he won first prize, but he never wrote another word until he came to the University.

Shortly after graduation, Jack heard the Army bugle call and was shipped to Vienna, Austria. He was put in the Hotel and Nightclub Management Division where he was assistant manager of a woman's hotel. At least the Army gave him some practical experience. Perhaps that accounts for his finesse with women.

A Last Resort

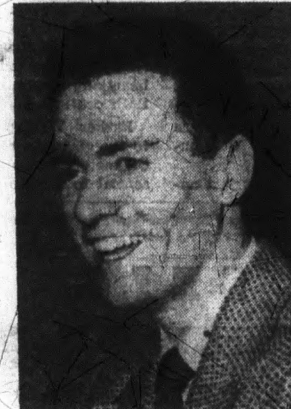

With three weeks' til registration, Jack decided on GW because his brother had been here the previous year. His first year was spent in the old Student Club and in moving from one boarding house to another. He and his old roommate from high school, Paul Devlin, were again sharing each other's neckties. By the end of this year Jack will have roomed with Paul a total of eight years. These two lived in eight different boarding houses in the course of seven months—they were looking for better food until they discovered that GW has women.

Jack's major is American Thought and Civilization. He finally decided on this one after trying five other majors. He intends to go into the creative writing field with a little MC work on the side. (He did this during the war in Red Cross Clubs in Vienna). Jack doesn't plan to write "the Great American Novel" because he has no message to give the world.

He is not much for activities but somehow he was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. He does manage, however, to attend the meetings of a few organizations.

'Few Are Chosen'

Jack was junior class producer and director for the All-U Follies last year. He started on the Hatchet junior staff and went to Features Editor and was co-editor of the mid-century edition. Now he has a regular column.

A member of Pi Delta Epsilon (Journalism honorary), he is now on the University's Committee on Publications. He has been very active in the Newman Club since 1947 and is currently its president. Also he is a member of the Religious Council, and Kappa Alpha, of which he was rush chairman last spring.

Jack likes the University but he says that his one regret is that he doesn't have a fast horse so he can attend the parties in all four parts of the city Saturday night . . . street-cars slow him down.

Journalists

I have been informed that a student was inaccurately advised by a member of this university that a person majoring in Journalism would, on that account, be barred from election to the Phi Beta Kappa Society upon graduation.

This is a mistaken idea. It would be most unfortunate if the prestige of the Department of Journalism should be damaged by the further circulation of a statement not based upon the regulations and by-laws of the Society.

The only curriculum test applied to those with the proper high academic standing is to determine if a fair proportion of the courses taken are in the liberal arts, as distinguished from purely scientific and professional studies. Journalism students, it appears, normally are required to secure a broad cultural education, sharpened to a point with a few technique courses, and would usually meet this test.

Hide That Crib

By JACK SKELLY

• THE LIBRARY is filling up; Brownly's is not filling up; the SUB remains the same. Once more the Proctor's voice is heard in our schools: "I'll shoot the first one that moves."

So what. We have all been spacing our studies and have been attempting to hit the happy medium. Football games, cocktail parties, pledge formal, fraternity parties, all these have been by-passed during the course of the past semester for one reason, and that most sacred reason is, "we owe it to ourselves, to the GI Bill, to mater and pater who are so glad to see us leave in September, and to Columbus for having discovered America to come through this semester with high flying colors."

Now that the soup has been served, let's get to the main course. Some of us haven't been studying. We've been busy milking the reindeer in the early morning. We haven't been studying, we don't know the material, the exams are upon us, we must get by, there's only one way out—dishonesty (I said it and I'm glad).

This information that is about to erupt and fill the minds of thousands of my beloved readers is actually meant for two or three. Recent laboratory experiments with white mice proved that no more than .234 percent of all the enrollment here had ever cheated, cribbed or eaten sliced American cheese. (When asked by the Doctor of Psychology if Mighty had ever cheated, is now cheating or intended to crib in the future, the patient answered: "I'd rather be right than transfer to Hyattsville's School of Erk-nology.") For this reason I will direct the remainder to those who have not learned the art of winning friends and influential professors.

My first kindergarten teacher (she was older than I when I began my first year of school) always told us: If you're going to steal don't begin with petty amounts of 40 or 100 dollars—go into the thousands. Whenever she told us this she would always hold up her four diamond rings. So, my children, I repeat unto you: if you (I should say When) you attempt the sport of chicanery, do it right. There's an art to everything. Allow me to place the fundamentals before you—if your interest is afterwards aroused to the point of eliminating Potomac canoe rides you may apply for masters work at the University of Chicago.

Intrusion of Confusion

By LOU STOCKSTILL

• WHEN SOMEONE blindly picked "Intrusion of Confusion" as a head for this column some umpteenth issues back, they couldn't have known how appropriate it would be to today's lead story. But wait'll you hear.

Last Tuesday night, Richard L. Coe, whose daily reviews you read in the Post, appeared on campus to speak at a Literary Club meeting. The meeting was scheduled to be held in Gov. 1—at least that was the room approved by the business office and listed on the activities calendar—but when the interested students arrived in the basement of Government, they found an 8:10 to 9 p.m. class going on in room number one.

Where Oh Where?

Officers of the club held a hurried conference and decided to move upstairs to their regular Tuesday-night meeting place, Gov. 101. The group reassembled on the first floor while Georg Tennyson, the club veep, scribbled a notice on the bulletin board downstairs telling of the changed meeting place. One-oh-one, however, was just as full-up as one, and the disgruntled students were still clustered in the hall when the Post drama editor arrived.

Another whispered conference was held, and this time the group decided to move to Lisner, Studio A, which was reportedly vacant. While Tennyson went back to Gov. basement to change the notices of the changed meeting place, the rest of the band moved on to Lisner.

Studio A was also occupied. Some members of the Players were rehearsing a one-act play. More whispered conferences were held, and the Players graciously relinquished their prior claim on the studio. It was some time, however, before they could get their equipment out and restore the room to order. In the meantime, Coe was kept waiting in the hall.

Tonjour Confuse

Finally, all was peace and light, and the lecture was able to get underway. Coe, an alumnus of the University, remarked that he had "always found it just as confusing" when he was a student here.

This is not the first time that the business office has created confusion of this nature, and since it is not to the credit of the University to offend an important speaker, it appears to be a problem worth the consideration of both the University administration and the Student Council.

SPEAKING OF THE STUDENT COUNCIL: Word has gone around that this body has appropriated money to buy itself keys. Sort of a we-want-something-to-remember-us-by gesture. A similar vote by the council at LSU brought a sarcastic editorial in the campus paper pointing out that the total cost of the keys would be "a trifle over $170." With our present limited budget, it seems that the Council could find a better use for its money.

The Basketball Team is making Hatchet sports editor Bill Leikari eat the words in his recent article which panned the team up, down and across the court. Or, maybe Bill's remarks acted on the cagers like fire under the donkey. In any event, the team has won every one of its games since the article appeared. We only hope that, unlike the donkey, they don't move just far enough ahead for the fire to engulf the wagon.

Progress Note: Physical Growth

By DON LIEF

• A HATCHET SURVEY of the physical growth of the University last week revealed that the two biggest current projects, Monroe Hall and the parking lot, are progressing on schedule.

Right →

Staff photographer Helm Lyon shot the parking-lot clearing from within one of the three remaining frame buildings on the square block between 23rd, 24th, H and I Sts. The excavation and grading continued while the razing of the structures is completed. Those tree stumps in the background are as big as the cars that will be parking there.

Upper Right

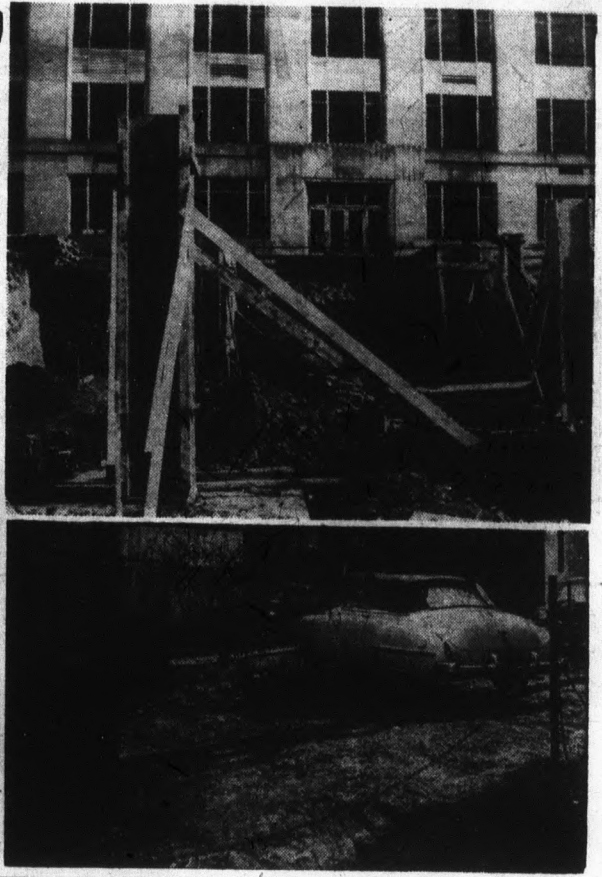

Monroe Hall's excavation, next to the Hall of Government on G St., shows the wooden forms which will mold reinforced concrete pillars. Concrete should be poured this week. Brickwork on the side facing the fire department has already reached the first floor level.

Lower Right

All isn't rosy, however, in the parking picture: a new Oldsmobile rests luxuriously in a space protected by posts and chains in back of the old Book Exchange, 2118 G St. Where five or six eager beavers could formerly park, the University has spent money to keep the space unused.

This empty space may be a preliminary to another expansion along G St. The seven-building unit, from 2106 to 2118 has been emptied of all private businesses. Arthur's and Polly's is wearing a grey-painted board front. Only remaining users of the seven buildings are Health Administration, Religious Education, Division of Special Students, International House and two sororities' rooms.

Staughton Hall, which had been emptied of all its female residents last summer, shows no signs of remodeling into offices although University officials said that this would be done. Originally, Staughton was planned as another men's dormitory but the expense of fulfilling fire regulations was too much, the University explained at the time.

Coe Tells Club About Drama Ills

• "WITH ONE SIDE of our mouths we [Americans] say 'this is the land of free', and with the other side we dispel the illusion," Richard L. Coe, drama editor of The Washington Post, told a University audience last Tuesday.

Speaking at a Literary Club meeting in Lianer Studio A, Coe decried the events which have prevented the showing of the English film "Oliver Twist" in this country.

He said he had seen the movie labeled anti-semitic at a special run off in England, and that it was "simply the Dickens book." He pointed out that "the really big villain in the story is a member of the Church of England," and that Fagan, the allegedly anti-semitic role, is played by a man "who is married to a Jewish woman."

Coe said the movie was "one of the most delightful" he had ever seen, and added that he "would put it on the same level with 'Great Expectations'."

The reviewer also lambasted Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York for his stand against the Rossini-produced film "The Miracle." He said it was unfortunate that "the minorities themselves attempt to prevent other people from enjoying the very rights which they are most anxious to protect."

For two hours, Coe delighted his audience by pin-pointing the ills of the theater and trampling producers, directors, managements, actors, playwrights, stage unions, television and the movies.

"Money is the whole trouble with the theater in America today," Coe declared. Everyone, he said "wants a share of the gravy." He pointed out that 18 unions get slices of every musical comedy production.

Perez Announces Program For Incoming Students

• HUGO PEREZ, recently elected president of the Student Bar Association, has announced an expanded orientation program for incoming law students.

Some 400 students are expected to register in the first week of February. Senior students will assist new students with their registration February 1 and 2.

The Law Review will appear the following Monday and Tuesday, February 5 and 6.

Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, advisers will be available on the first, second, and third floors of Stockton Hall from 9 to 1:30 and for evening students, from 5:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Climaxing the week's activities will be an address by the dean of the Law School, Admiral O. S. Colclough.

Perez requests that all those who would like to participate in the orientation program contact Rae Ann Kaufman, chairman, in 303 Strong Hall.

Placement Office Offers Job Aid

• STUDENTS INTERESTED in locating jobs following graduation should register with the Student Placement Office, 724 22nd St. NW. This service is open to all February and May graduates.

The Placement Office receives numerous requests for graduating seniors from business, industry and the government. The demand for engineers, physicists and math majors is now at an all time high.

Desirable part-time and temporary jobs are also available. See Job Jois on page 9.

Lester Speaks To Two Groups Of Engineers

• GORDON H. LESTER of the National Bureau of Standards spoke to a joint meeting of the Institute of Radio Engineers and the American Institute of Electrical Engineers Wednesday.

Since 1930 Lester has been the Radio Engineer in Charge, at the Standard Frequency Transmission Station, Greenbelt, Md. The station is WWV, which broadcasts time signals only, 24 hours a day.

Lester explained some of the technical problems in preventing the station from drifting "out of bounds" on the dial.

As their next scheduled event, IRE is planning a field trip to the Naval Observatory, January 30. The group will meet at the Observatory at 2 p. m. for a conducted tour. All members expecting to attend are requested to sign up on the sheet posted outside the Engineer's Lounge.

Omicron Delta Kappa Honors Dr. Wetmore with Certificate

• DR. ALEXANDER Wetmore, a recent initiate of Omicron Delta Kappa, activity honorary for men, will be presented with his certificate of membership at a luncheon ceremony at the Faculty Club Friday.

Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, Dr. Wetmore was tapped together with Dean Walther, Joë Krupa, and several students at the last Interfraternity Sing. In addition to this position in the field of science, Dr. Wetmore is a member of the Board of Trustees of the University, and a member of the Committee on University Libraries and Museums.

The occasion is one of the regular luncheons held by Alpha Delta Circle of ODK the first Friday and the third Thursday of each month.

A regular meeting of ODK will also be held in the Conference Room of the Student Union Office Building Sunday at 3 p. m. Business to be considered is the reports of the committee on qualifications.

Delta Phi Epsilon Taps Dean Koenig

Those pledged include: William Bair, Glen Camp, Henry Emmert, George Fitzpatrick, Gus Guthery, Ralph Malone, Thomas McMahon, Lee Mourning, Goodwin Shapiro, Dick Unger, and Edward Wilson.

Camp and Mourning were chosen as the co-presidents of the pledge class, and Edward Hayes, Jr., of the active chapter as pledge trainer.

Skelly

The entire process of academic dishonesty during the period of the testing of mental ability is divided into three distinct and separate categories: 1) equipment, 2) nerve, 3) eyesight. Let us examine each and be enlightened, shall we?

Equipment. Many are called, but few are chosen. Two or three old faithfuls are worth more than a dozen modern ones (see advertisement in last week's HONOR IN THE CLASS ROOM). Microfilming of notes is the latest and most powerful weapon known to students. Professor Chips*—not to be confused with Chips of ADIOS MR. CHIPS* (Spanish version)—has regular hours for this service. Other instruments of ungentlemanly-like conduct are rulers, ink on the palm of the hand (this is not advocated since blood poisoning might develop—if its worth it, go ahead, however—hah, hah!).

Nerve. Studies show that this virtue is from heredity and environment. Those from Brooklyn and those born to people probably have it.

Eyesight. Naval Air corps has developed a new system of "information at a glance" which is fool-proof. Able to reach to the point of diminishing returns in one thousandth of a second . . . Oh here comes the proctor—quick Mary, I'm on number five, section II. . .

GOOD LUCK ON YOUR EXAMS

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Number 11... THE OPOSSUM

The class clown went out on a limb and tried to prove cigarette mildness by the quick-trick method! He tried the fast inhale, fast exhale test—a whiff, a sniff—and they still left him up in the air!

But then he got his feet on the ground. He learned that there is a reliable way to discover how mild a cigarette can be!

And that test is . . .

The sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test which simply asks you to try Camels as a steady smoke—on a pack after pack, day after day basis. No snap judgments needed. After you've enjoyed Camels—and only Camels—for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), we believe you'll know why . . .

More People Smoke Camels than any other cigarette!

League D's two undefeated teams were scheduled to meet today, but neither knew about it in time and the match was postponed. Kappa Sigma is currently sporting a 2-0 record while KA has won its only two games to date over SPE and Acacia. The Acacians have chosen to retire from league play after losing two in a row.

This left PhiEps and SPE to play today—and play they did. The Sig Eps finally found someone to beat, and they really poured it on by a 40-12 margin. Vogel scored at will for the winners and tallied 19 while Kaplan tallied half of the PhiEps points with 6.

We still haven't found our score-book, by the way. Keep looking.

Theta Tau, Mutchler Win Bowling Cups

• ALL-UNIVERSITY bowling competition ended Saturday, with Theta Tau emerging as the team winner, and Tom Mutchler of Theta Tau the individual winner.

The final team scores in the match between Theta Tau and Sigma Chi were; Theta Tau, 1538 total pin fall, and Sigma Chi, 1394 total pin fall.

Mutchler bowled games of 101, 102, and 135 for a total of 338, beating Ed Bailer of Sigma Chi by three pins. The first three individual scores were close, with only five pins between Mutchler and Charles Levy, the third place winner, who had a total of 330 pins.

NCAA'S Sanity Code Repealed; Farrington Spearheads Action

• THE SOUTH, spearheaded by the University's Max Farrington, voted out the controversial NCAA Sanity Code from the organization's laws. Farrington, Southern Conference president, introduced a resolution to end the NCAA control of aid to athletes after three years of the group's policing of college athletics.

The code was ousted by more than the two-thirds majority needed. The action by the NCAA convention, in Dallas, has returned regulation of aid to athletes to the schools and conferences.

All Control Lifted

There was talk that now all control would be lifted, and larger schools would be able to get star athletes at the expense of smaller ones. Most officials, however, stated that their schools would not give much, if any more financial help than is already being handed out.

The main criticism of the Sanity Code was its hypocrisy. The representative of the University of Kentucky mentioned that while Kentucky was in good standing, and rated high in the nation athletically, smaller schools which have poor athletic records are branded as "Criminals."

After Farrington introduced his resolution, many delegates spoke against the code, especially those representing universities in the Southern, Southeastern, and Southwestern conferences. Only two delegates fought for the ruling.

One of the two, Clarence Huston of Tufts, chairman of the Compliance Committee and the man who did most of the policing, told the assembly, "You might as well admit you've failed; that you're not big enough and strong enough to whip these foul conditions in college athletics, if you vote against the Code."

The passing of Farrington's resolution brought great relief to the seven violators—Virginia, VPI, VMI, Villanova, North Carolina, North Carolina State, and Richmond. New NCAA action contemplated against these schools has been dropped, and presumably the seven are again in good standing.

Compliance Committee

The Compliance Committee, which had the responsibility of supporting the code, got its share of criticism. Farrington maintains that the committee should no longer exist, since the Code has been dropped.

Some delegates, however, believed that retention of the principle on recruiting players from secondary schools called for keeping the Committee.

Juniors Overpower Freshman Women

• MARION GLICKMAN of the Senior team evades the Soph's Dutch Slotemaker's block. The Seniors won easily.

By ANN NOLTE & MARY STRAIN

ON MONDAY of last week, the women's basketball season officially opened with a game between the juniors and freshmen. Early in the game it looked as though the frosh might hold the upperclassmen to a close score, but the more experienced junior team, led by Phyllis Shapiro, pulled ahead to win the game, by twenty points. Helping to keep the frosh shooters from the mark, Pat Weaver and Myrta Wylie played the whole game for the juniors.

The freshmen have unlimited potential ability, and their coming game with the sophomores should be an excellent one. Shirley Duschene, Connie Dyreson, Frances Graves and Lyn Henderson are just a few of the girls who make up the fighting freshman team this year.

The following day, the senior team, composed of players who have played together for three years, swamped the inexperienced sophomores. The soph guards sparked by "Dutch" Slotemaker worked hard, but couldn't seem to stop the driving attack of the senior forwards, Hildy Sterling and Marion Glickman. Marcia Chipman and Joyce Parkinson led the valiant sophomore effort only to be pinned down by senior guards Jo Ann Houk, Ann Noyes and Mary Ann Yeager. Again, as in the frosh-junior game, experience won for the upper-classmen.

Further inter-class games as well as several games with other colleges in this area will be played later in the season.

Top Greek Teams Battling for Title

By BOB BUZZELL

• ANYTHING CAN happen in League A with four evenly matched teams slugging it out. Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi, SAE, and Delta Tau Delta all figure to win it with the title riding on every game. Last week's Hatchet had an error in the scores—it was Delta Tau Delta 29, PiKA 24, not vice-versa.

This week, however, the PiKAs rebounded from the loss and came back to edge Sigma Chi 34-30. The win kept the Pikes in the picture and gave SAE undisputed possession of first place. PiKA scored heavily in the first half and then held on determinedly to gain the victory; at halftime it was 30-12 in favor of PiKA. In the third period the Sigs put in 12 points and threatened to tie, but close defensive work staved off the rally. Andy Davis led the way with 15 points while Israel and Kuldell were tops with 8 each for Sigma Chi.

In the other League A game today, SAE ran over Delta Tau Delta 49-31. The Sig Alphas were greatly aided by the return of their two aces, Lou Ciarrocca and Bob Cilentio. Lou and Bob were missed sorely in last week's overtime loss to Sigma Chi. Top man in the win, however, was Dean Almy with 19 big points. Schlemmer and Clark led Delta Tau Delta with 14 each.

Theta Delta Chi took a commanding lead in League B with a 35-16 rout of Phi Alpha. The game stacked up as a close one, but Phi Alpha withered in the face of Theta Delta's second-half surge. At halftime PhiA led 16-12, but in the third period Woods found the range to put TDX ahead to stay.

Rounding out League B play was Phi Sigma Kappa's 30-18 win over TKE; the winless Tekes trailed all the way and showed nothing in taking their third straight defeat. Phi Sig moved into contention and could catch up to Theta Delta before February—but the chances are close. Thorne and Woods paced the PhiSigs with 8 each.

Tau Epsilon Phi took their third straight win in League C competition without shooting a basket—the Argonauts failed to show up and TEP went one more step towards an undefeated season. It looks as though the TEPs will have it all their way from here on in. League C teams have given them no competition and with the season half gone it should be easy to hang on to a full game margin. The AEPis are second with a 2-1 record, but TEP easily defeated them earlier in the year.

The AEPis' second win came today over the doormat Sigma Nus by a 29-21 score. Spectators were at a loss as to whether they were watching a ten-man wrestling match or an acrobatic circus. Stein, however, managed to stand up long enough to sink 8 points for the winners while Gambal tipped in 12 for Sigma Nu.

fourth against VPI. A victory at Uline this evening would bring the GW cagers out of the red, and help in the Southern Conference standings. Game time is 9 p. m. and activity books are good.

At Lexington, Va., over the weekend, the Colonials came through with two victories. The first, last Friday evening, pitted the G-streeters against winless VMI, and as expected, GW romped, 79-56, with Bobby Edenbaum the strong man of the evening with 17 points.

Saturday night, in the same city, Washington and Lee, whom GW had easily beaten earlier in the session by a wide margin, handed the Colonials quite a scare. For three periods, the Generals led the Buff, and only in the last minute and a half were the GW cagers able to pull the game out of the fire.

Break Tie

Bud Goglin and Bob Edenbaum both dropped in buckets in the final minute to break a 77-all tie, and put the Colonials out in front to stay. GW won, 83-79.

Last Tuesday at Uline, Bill Reinhardt's boys really showed that they could play top-notch basketball, as they whipped the vaunted sophs of Georgetown by a resounding 10 points. Not only did the Buff keep up with the Hilltoppers during the regulation time, but very decisively outplayed and outscored them in the five minute overtime period.

Lead Changes 17 Times

It was one of the most exciting basketball games played in the area for quite a while, with the lead changing hands 17 times, and with the score knotted 16 times. Art Cerra, although he fouled out with approximately 11 minutes left in the game, led the scoring with 23 points, of which 17 were in the first half.

When the Colonials froze the ball with three minutes to go in the game, with a 68-67 lead, it looked as if it were all over. The Hoyas were granted a reprieve when Goglin fouled Sullivan, who tied up the fracas at 68 apiece. In the overtime period, however, quick baskets by Bud Goglin and Ken Kern took the fight out of the heralded Hoyas, and for the rest of the five-minute overtime period, it was a romp for the Buff, 90-70.

The final game of the semester will be played at Uline Friday evening against North Carolina whose team has had a mediocre season so far. Next semester looks good for the team, from here anyway.

PE Club Planned

• SEVEN FACULTY members and a group of physical education majors attended a meeting last week to formulate plans for a PE majors club.

Eddie Green was appointed temporary chairman and Ann Nolte was chosen recorder. Three committees were set up: Constitutional, Ferd Cardano, chairman; Nominations, Mary Strain, chairman, and Objectives, Daniel Merrill, chairman.

The next meeting will be held February 20 at 4 p. m. in the Conference Room of the Student Union Office Building.

Purposes of the new club would be a pool for student abilities, library clearing house of PE material and a sounding board of student opinion. The club would meet with other organizations on campus in order to further unify student co-operation in activities.

Welling Five Tosses Wrench in Standings

By BUDDY WOLFE

• "HOW MANY GAMES have the Ramblers lost?" is a question that no one seems able to answer.

Until last week, Independent League B was moving along in an organized manner with the understanding that a team called the Ramblers had dropped out earlier in the season. But suddenly the Ramblers from Welling Hall showed up for a game against the Aces last Wednesday night, won it by forfeit, and thus brought up the question—"Where does this team stand after being literally out of the league for three quarters of the time?"

According to the schedule, the Ramblers were to have played the Rockets on December 18, but the score book shows no record of the game having been played. The Rockets claim they won by forfeit; the Ramblers claim they won by forfeit—and nobody knows.

Also, last Friday night a game was scheduled between the Ramblers and the Vets Club, but neither team could place five men on the floor. By intramural rules, this means a double forfeit. Yet, it seems that these team will be re-matched at a later date.

Meanwhile, a strong Pharmacy team has moved into sole possession of first place after blasting the Boy Wonders out of the race, 28-21. It was a close game, with Pharmacy leading by only four points at the end of the third quarter.

In an overtime game, the Newmannippers overcame the Rockets, 21-19, on a long set shot by Marin Solis with just two seconds remaining.

LEAGUE A

• WHILE THE CREEKS and Anacostia Indians are relaxing at the end of their seasons in a first-place tie, the Playboys meet the Vagabonds Thursday night, with the pressure on the former.

The Playboys, with a 5-1 record, must win this last League A game to end their season in a three-way tie with the Greeks and Indians, who boast six victories each against only one defeat.

As usual, the Playboys will be counting chiefly on the mastery of Pete Cerrick and the scoring ability of Sylvan "Bones" Goldin, who is leading both independent leagues with 97 points in six games. In the Vagabonds, they will be meeting a potential but thus far ineffective squad.

The Vagabonds looked good against the Steamrollers last Thursday, but lost their third game, 30-42, against three victories. With Bill Duffey scoring from the pivot and "Grover" Cleveland hitting on long sets, the Vagabonds managed to tie the game up at the half, 10-10.

Matt Zunic, Basketball Star, Returns To Coach Frosh

• THE BASKETBALL situation at the University will be looking up in the future.

One of GW's all-time basketball players has come home to roost. Matt Zunic, who attended the University from 1939 to 1942, and played on the Colonial cage squad with Jug Garber and Red Auerbach, has returned to GW to be freshman basketball mentor, while George (Jug) Garber, whom he replaces, moves up to the position of Bill Reinhardt's assistant.

Zunic, while at GW, scored 659 points in three seasons, was named to the All-Southern Conference teams in '41 and '42. In 1942, New York sportswriters named him one of the five best players to appear in Madison Square Garden that season. He served in the Navy during the war and when the war ended, Matt joined the Caps for two seasons, where his former teammate Auerbach was coach.

The freshman team which Zunic will coach has lost only one out of nine starts.
